

DOR/NICK, DORNIC, or DORNOCK. A species of stout linen cloth woven in a simple diaper pattern. Dornicks were formerly made in considerable quantity at Dornich, or Tournay, in the Netherlands, and hence their name. From this place the manufacture was probably carried to Norfolk, England, by the Dutch, who emigrated thither during the persecution of the Duke of Alva.