

Allentown, Pa. The Adelaide Silk Mills, which have been running on a short time basis for some time, have resumed a full time schedule.

Allentown, Pa. Hunsicker Good & Co., manufacturers of ribbons, are installing additional looms in their plant at 142-44 N. 7th St., and are at the same time erecting a new mill at Fountain and Allen Sts., which when completed will be equipped with 22 looms.

Bath, Pa. The Bath Silk Co., and to which reference was made in the September issue, has incorporated with a capital of $25,000.

Bethlehem, Pa. The new building of the Wyandotte Silk Mill, commission throwsters, is about completed; the same being 50 by 150 feet, with two stories and a basement.

Easton, Pa. The Cement Bag Co. has been incorporated with a capital of $50,000, to manufacture and deal in all kinds of bagging material.

Hamburg, Pa. A new knitting mill is planned by Jacob Kessler & Son.

Mauch Chunk, Pa. The name of the Weatherly Silk Mill has been changed to the Roscoe Broad Silk Mill, John G. Hutchinson is its supt.

Mayfield, Pa. The Mayfield Silk Mill, Inc., has planned a $38,000 addition to their plant, thus doubling its capacity.

Northampton, Pa. It is reported that the John H. Meyer Silk Mfg. Co. is planning the erection of a silk mill here, which will be equipped with about 350 looms and it is expected to have the plant completed and in operation by the first part of next year.

Plymouth, Pa. The Wyoming Valley Knitting Mills, operated by Thomas West, are running at a full time basis, after having been shut down for about two months.

Reading, Pa. The equipment of the new knitting mill started by A. W. Wolfinger at Front and Washington Sts consists of 160 knitting machines, 18 ribbers and 15 loopers, on the production of mens and womens hosiery.

Strausstown, Pa. The Strausstown Hosiery Mill has been completed and has started operation.

York, Pa. The Diamond Silk Mill, which has been operating on short time basis, is now running full time. Sufficient orders has been received which will necessitate the employment of additional hands.

York, Pa. Ernest and Herman Levv, 72 Greene street, New York City, and to whom reference was made in the July issue, have concluded arrangements with the York Chamber of Commerce to establish a factory here, to give employment to about 400 operatives.

Gloucester City, N. J. The Argo Mills, which employ 300 hands and who suspended operation in June, due to the high price of cotton, have resumed on a full time basis.

Hackensack, N. J. It is reported that the plant of Givernaud Bros., silk manufacturers, which has been idle all summer has resumed operation in full.

Lakeview, N. J. Contracts have been given out for the construction of a $70,000 mill by J. Edwards Barbour, pres.

The design shown has just been patented by J. Merry, New York, and consists of a New Design for a Rug, one quarter of the full design being shown in the illustration. It comprises a medallion with covered ground work, also a corner piece and a border.

The value of the imports of piece goods into Shanghai in 1909 showed an increase over 1908 of 18,414,542 haikwan taels, or $11,601,161 gold. This increase is attributable to the rise in the price of raw cotton and to advantageous purchases by certain newly established import firms. The market in the interior is improving also, as is evidenced by the large auctions of all kinds of piece goods drawn from stocks which accumulated last year.

The increase in the export of cotton and cotton manufactures during the first three months of this year from the United States to the Philippine Islands, amounted to $439,842.

A SOLUTION TO ONE EXPENSE PROBLEM.

The cost of labor in transferring material throughout the mill, is a problem which plays an important part in the success of a mill from a financial standpoint.

In many mills the problem has been given serious consideration and various ways have been devised for eliminating some of this expense as every dollar unnecessarily spent in labor means so many less in profits.

The situation has been readily overcome in handling light packages, but the problem of handling the heavier cases and barrels ranging from 100 to 1,000 lbs. has been the greatest obstacle.

The general custom in handling heavy cases is for one man to handle the ordinary truck and two or three others to assist in loading and moving it.

As readily seen, the cost consumed in transferring this material amounts to considerable when we take into consideration the time consumed by the three or four men.

This elimination of the extra cost of labor has been the problem of almost every mill and many are solving it by the use of a self loading hand truck.

This truck is being used in many mills, one man being able to load and convey cases, barrels or bales weighing oftentimes up to 800 or 1,000 pounds without placing his hands, on the load, and with greater ease and in less time than it would take three or four men to do the same work with the old style truck.

The principle of construction of the truck is the secret of the whole thing. There is no lifting of the cases necessary to get a hold, all that is required is that the truck be pushed up against the case or barrels, the lever hook dropped over the far side and by means of the extension clamp adjusted so that there will be little or no give to the case and the truck pulled forward, the load coming over on the truck.

There is no slamming, banging, slipping or dropping of the case as with the old style trucks and they require very little exertion in transferring loads up to 800 or more pounds.

These trucks are built and for sale by the United States Truck and Supply Co., Machinery Department The Bourse, Philadelphia, who can furnish instances where mills have profited by the use of these trucks.

With the avowed purpose of lessening Great Britain's dependence upon the United States for raw material, the Council of British Cotton Growing Association has approved of arrangements for the development of cotton growing in Rhodesia in conjunction with the British South Africa Company.

what less than $1,700,000, as originally estimated.

Chicopee Falls, Mass. It is reported that the Taylor Bramley Co., manufacturers of womens and childrens knit goods, will make improvements to their plant, which will enable them to increase their business about 25 per cent.

Clinton, Mass. Work on the addition to the Lancaster mills plant is progressing rapidly, and within a short time the new 400-foot mill on Green street will be ready for the roof.

Fall River, Mass. Eben C. Willey, formerly supt. of the Barnaby Mfg. Co., is reported interested in the organization of a company for the manufacture of fine cotton goods.

Fall River, Mass. The Barnard Mfg. Co. is improving its equipments by the installation of four new boilers.

Lawrence, Mass. The Farwell Bleachery, So. Canal Street, is planning the erection of a 95 by 35 foot addition, of brick construction, to its plant.

Methuen, Mass. The Tremont Worsted Co., which has been operating its plant on short time, is now running on a full time basis.

Millbury, Mass. The Bowden Felt-ing Co. will erect a new picker house, 30 by 60 feet.

Monson, Mass. With the exception of the Langwald Worsted Co's plant all the mills in Monson are running full time. The Ellis No. 1 and No. 3 mills are running until 9 P. M. every night. The Somerset Woolen Co. is running night and day, and the S. F. Cushman

Co. and Ricketts and Shaw are running full time, the latter for the first time since last November.

North Brookfield, Mass. Benjamin C. Mudge, treas. of the Oxford Linen Mills, reports that a new weave shed, 300 feet by 50 feet and two stories high, will be erected this fall.

Pittsfield, Mass. The Berkshire Woolen and Worsted Co., who purchased the upper Peck Mill, have started the same in operation after an idleness of about a year. When running full, the plant employs about 200 hands.

Pittsfield, Mass. All departments of the Pontoosuc Woolen Manufacturing Co's mill are running day and night.

South Hingham, Mass. Alterations are being made in the Hingham Knitting Co.'s mill, to permit the installation of new machinery.
